Sheet

Sheet

Summary

This is LBRY's first quarterly report. We enter with zero credits expended. We anticipate zero institutional expenditures, zero or limited organizational expenditures, and light community expenditures.

Overview By Fund

Community Fund

Currently, we are engaging in the following programs:

- 3-20 LBC for users invited to participate in the beta. This program is expected to continue well through this quarter.
- 1-5 LBC for referrals. This program is expected to continue in parallel with above.
- Up to 2000LBC for certain publishers to join LBRY. This program is new and experimental and subject to revision.

5/8/2018

Quarterly Credit Report: Second Quarter 2016 - LBRY

- A bounty program with awards varying from small awards to 10,000+ LBC. This program is new and experimental.
- Tipping on our community chat for user contribution and participation. This program is expected to continue.

We have allocated approximately 2,000,000 LBC across these categories, but do not anticipate actually awarding this much.

Operational Fund

We anticipate most expenses continuing to be met via existing assets.

Depending on fundraising over the next 3 months, we may entertain private placements via structures that align with the long-term interest in LBRY and minimize market impact.

Institutional Fund

We anticipate zero expenditures from this fund this quarter.

Sheet

Sheet

Summary

This is LBRY's second quarterly report. This quarter we outlaid only 267,778 of the 2,000,000 allocated Community credits. 100,000 operational credits were exchanged with Shapeshift to provide liquidity. No institutional credits were moved or spent.

Overview By Fund

Community Fund

- 10,600 credits outlaid to community managers
- 171,251 credits outlaid to Alpha and Beta testers
- 19,150 credits outlaid to community members for completing bounties
- 75,777 credits outlaid in Slack tips*

*Some tip outlays were for bounties and to reward early people who stepped up to manage the community before we had a formal program. We have ceased using Slack tips for bounties and community management and will be able to better differentiate these moving forward.

Quarterly Credit Report: Third Quarter 2016 - LBRY

Over the next quarter we anticipate continued substantial use of the Community credits to grow both the user base and the publishing base. We expect these outlays to match or exceed those of this quarter, but not to dramatically exceed these outlays.

Operational Fund

- 100,000 credits exchanged to ShapeShift to provide liquidity on their platform.

ShapeShift required ownership over a pool of credits to maintain their exchange services. These credits were sold at near-market rates.

We do not anticipate any expenditures from this fund through Q2 2017.

Institutional Fund

We have no current plans to expend any credits from this fund this quarter, but are examining possibilities. Any institutional fund expenditures at this time would likely come with restrictions that prevent exchange or sale.

Quarterly Credit Report: Fourth Quarter 2016

Sheet

Sheet

Summary

This quarter we did not move any community credits from cold storage. We spent 293,604 already moved community credits on line items detailed below. No operational credits were moved or spent. No institutional credits were moved or spent. As the LBRY protocol performance and reliability has increased, we anticipate increased outlays in Q1 2017. We will be redeeming many if not all beta invites, as well as launching a new program offering credits to developers. We also may begin the first institutional outlays, but any outlays here will be pilot programs and come with spending restrictions.

Overview By Fund

Community Fund

- Community managers received 261,109 credits this quarter
- Beta invitees received 22,400 credits this quarter
- Bounty participants received 5,750 credits this quarter
- 4,345 credits were used for "other" purposes, mostly given to developers

5/8/2018

Quarterly Credit Report: Fourth Quarter 2016 - LBRY

This quarter was a down quarter in credit outlays because we declined to send beta invites to users while the protocol was showing poor reliability. As reliability has been increasing, we anticipate inviting many if not all users on the beta waitlist. This will represent a significant uptick in credit outlays, possibly as much as 1-2 million LBC. We will also be launching a new program offering credits to developers.

Operational Fund

-No activity this quarter

We anticipate no usage of credits from this fund this quarter.

Institutional Fund

No activity this quarter

We may run our first institutional pilot programs this quarter. Any outlays from this fund this quarter will be minimal and are likely to come with restrictions that prevent them from going to market.
